Granted McQuade by the Court of Appeals.

Judge Andrews Handed Down the Opinion To-Day.

Judge Peckham Dissents from Portions of the Opinion.

INPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, ALBANY, Oct. 2.-Among the decisions anded down by the Court of Appeals this rning, was one granting a new trial to Arthur J. McQuade, one of the famous New York City Board of Aldermen of 1884.

The opinion is by Judge Andrews. Judges Ruger, Earl, Danforth and Finch

Judge Peckham dissents from that portion of the opinion treating of the order in which peremptory challenges should be. The dissent is directory only and not a matter of exception upon which to grant a new trial; also from that portion of the opinion treating of the rejection of a competent juror as being an error, upon which exception might be taken. He agrees upon the other matters discussed in the opinion.

Judge Gray dissents from the grounds of the conclusion in Judge Andrews's opinion, Court was affirmed, and an appeal was immediately taken to the Court of Appeals.

It was argued before that Court in session at Saratoga in June last by Gen. Tracy and istant District-Attorney Semple.

REICH'S CONVICTION AFFIRMED.

A Voluntary Statement. A Volumina Statement.

The writer of this paragraph once had an elder and only brother. Brought up together, we were almost inseparable, hopeful and ambitious. Exposure planted the seeds of consumption in the elder, and in a few weeks, in the month of May, "good more of nowers were stuck round about his winding-sheet." Every attention and every remedy that love could give or obtain were unavailing. Since that and day I have learned, through the most trustworthy authority and from experience in its mea, that a real remedy now exists—that of Dr. Pinner, called the "Golden Menical Discovers," A thousand pities that it was not discovered ages ago, but how thankful the present generation should be that it can now avail likely of so potent a semesty. "." THERE WILL BE NO UNION.

The County Democrate Will Nomina All hopes of a union between Tammany Hall and the County Democracy are dispelled. There does not now appear the slightest chance for harmony. The indications are all on the side of a hot three-cornered fight for Mayor, Sheriff. County Clerk, Coroners and President of the Board of Aldermen.

The fight promises to extend all along the line and will include Congressmen, Assemblymen and District Aldermen. If there is no change in the local political situation, New York City will witness one of the most

New York City will witness one of the most exciting elections that has ever taken place within its limits.

If local statesmen are not mistaken the Fresidency and Governorship will be lost sight of in the Mayoralty contest.

On Thursday evening, at Cooper Institute, a meeting under the auspices of Democratic and Republican citizens will renominate Mayor Hewitt.

The County Democracy County Convention will meet Saturday afternoon at Cooper Institute and will also renominate him. Col. Michael C. Murphy will be named for Sheriff and a German, probably Gen. Sigel, will be nominated for County Clerk. The remainder of the slate is not known.

The bold move of the County Democrats in calling their Convention Saturday and announcing that they will renominate Mayor Hewitt has surprised the Tammany Hall leaders. They do not, however, appear to be frightened.

They say that the County Democracy leaders have been pledged to Mayor Hewitt's attacks on the Wigwam were dictated by Judge Power.

The Commissioner remains silent when asked who will be Tammany Hall's probable company.

The Republican leaders say that their party will nominate a straight ticket.

A rumor was current this morning to the effect that among the signers to the petition calling for the mass-meeting "of the People" to nominate Mr. Hewitt for Mayor, was the name of Frederic R. Coudert.

An Evening World reporter called on Mr. Coudert to-day and asked him if he had signed the petition.

"I did not sign it," he said. "That's the first I've heard of it. If my name has been used it has been done without my consent."

"Then you are not in favor of Hewitt's nomination?"

A Mother Accuses Her Son of Stealing Over $1,000 of Her Savings.

Mary Deans, an aged woman, who lives at 235 Barrow street, charged her son Thomas, in Justice Weld's Court this morning, with the theft of $1,011.82, the savings of many years.

She said she placed the money in the Provident Institution for Savings, and Thomas had charge of the account. She found that he went to the bank two weeks ago and drew all the money. Two days ago he disappeared, and she became suspicious.

Detective Dalton was sent to look for the boy and arrested him on Grand street. Eighty cents of the stolen money was found in his pocket. He was held for trial.

The XX Bowlers in Fine Form.

The XX Bowling Club outdid itself at its annual pening last evening at Eiseman's Club-room, 294 lowery. During the vacation season the club has largely increased in numbers and intends to make strong bid for the championship pennant. The club had the highest individual averages last year, but in all the championship games they were under that mysterious induence known as bad luck, and the best they could do was to come in a close second.

A cup presented by manager Frank Fagen was the prize bowled for by teams that were usade up as follows, composed of married and single members of the club:

Prank Patterson.
Rdward Eiseman.
Henry Bayard.
Charles Albright.
Frederick Kleppe.
Henry Worth.
Adam Wolff.
J. Brandwine.
The married men won with a score of 1,703 and the single men loat by only one both. The highest score was made by Frank Paterson—238—and it will be hard to keep him from winning the highest average medal.

The Dry-Goods Cleveland and Taurman Club seld a rousing noon-day mass-meeting to-day at headquarters, 343 Broadway.
There were over two thousand people present, and the greatest entusiasm prevailed. Col. John R. Fellows delivered an address on the tariff issue.

OH, YES! TEDDY MAY MARRY.

IT SEEMS QUITE CERTAIN THAT LILLIAN WILL NOT OBJECT.

nic Longing After a New Wife May Be Indulged in Safety-The Airy Fairy Is Even Glad to Get Rid of Her Fickle Director-Such Is the Idea of the Songstress's Mother and Stater.

The news comes from London that Teddy Solomon is treading ardently, if not closely, in the steps of his regal predecessar, the Scriptural Solomon of the thousand wives. Teddy is not a bit Scriptural, but he is very olomonie, though, of course, a paltry half dozen of co-existent spouses is a mere bagatelle compared to the royal Hebrew drove.

Teddy is about to take to his arms in a matrimonal embrace Kate Eversleigh, a bonnie burlesquer at the Avenue Theatre in London, and who has displayed her charms before New York footlights.

Though Teddy would seem qualified to give an answer to the conundrum, "Is mariage a failure ?" he is never quite happy uness he is some woman's husband, it would appear. He was anxious, however, to know whether his erstwhile American consort, Lilian Russell, would make things disagreeable or not at this new matrimonial move of his,

THE EVENING WORLD reporter called on Abe Hummel this morning and found the little man in the roomy inclosure of an office arm-chair. When asked about the new ven-ture of Teddy into the matrimonial pasture he answered :

"Yes, that's so. I got a letter from Solomon yesterday, written from the Gaiety Theatre, London, under date of Sept. 18, He wanted me to get Miss Lillian Russell not to make a row over the thing. I sent the let-ter to Miss Russell last night. She is playing in "The Queen's Maic," at the Columbia Theatre, Chicago, I asked Miss Russell to write Mr. Solomon that she would let him alone."

"The marriage of Lillian to Teddy Solomon in Hoboken was no marriage, was it?" asked the reporter.
"No, His wife, a Miss Grey, was living "No, His wife, a heard of it she

Discoveries Go On While the Forger Lives Another check on which James E. Bedell had forged an indorsement has been discovered by Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate. It was for $5,000, and is said to have been originally cashed by the Union National Bank. Ex-Judge Shipman said this morning that Ex-Judge Shipman said this morning that this check does not in any way increase the liarility of the firm, but may add to the liability of the bank which received it.

With reference to the rumors that Bedell's former employers are coddling the clever forger and intent on charging him with a low degree of crime to get his assistance in recovering the amount of the forgeries from the banks which cashed the checks, Judge Shipman said there was not one word of truth in them.

He said it was true that members of the firm had visited Bedell since his confinement, but such visits, he said, had been absolutely necessary because of the knowledge of some portions of their business which Hedell alone possessed and which must be obtained.

That any checks had been made to Bedell in his own name, on any of the loans made on forged mortgages, Judge Shipman absolutely denied. All of the checks of the firm were made payable to the alleged mortgagers and the inforsements on every one of them was forced.

Meanwhile Bedell does not spend his time in the Tombs in useless repining. He is hav-ing just as good a time as he can, under cir-cumstances which are certainly not conducive cumstances which are certainly not conducive to gayety.

Mr. Bedell's mate, who shares the forger's cot in cell No. 3. is a jolly sort of rogue, and he undoubtedly does much to keep up Bedell's spirits. He is John L. Townsend, a green-goods man, awaiting trial.

Townsend facetically styles the narrow cell which he occupies with Bedell as "Hotel No. 3." and himself as manager, recognizing Bedell as the proprietor. His deference to Bedell is owing either to the fact that he considers the forger a superior rogue or to the other fact that Bedell's money supplies the table of "Hotel No. 3."

Townsend considers that if he has "fallen into the soup," it is a particularly pleasant and rich broth in which to be dropped.

Bedell pays for the meals for both himself and his cellmate, and he knows how to make a most appetizing selection from the menu

DEAD IN A LONELY SPOT.

The Body of Young James Gaffacy Found

While patrolling his post on Forty-sixth street, half a block from the East River, at Street, and a block from the Bask fiver, as 5 o'clock this morning, Policeman Conovan discovered the body of a young man lying on the sidewalk.

The man lay directly in front of a stable and his head rested on the steps leading to the entrance, Blood had cozed from his mouth.

Later the body was identified as that of James Gaffney, twenty-four years, of First avenue and Thirty-ninth street. Although there were no marks of violence on the body. Detectives Cuff and Shelley were sent to investigate.

The dead man's mother said that her son had been troubled with a bad cough, and she thought he had died of a hemorrhage. Coroner Levy allowed the body to be taken home.

PRPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD. Lownon Oct 2 -The London police ar till working at random in the Whitechapel ases. No arrests have yet been this morning, though it is ot at all unlikely that a half a dozen uspicious characters may be taken into cusody before night, as was done yesterday. But it doesn't signify much. These arrests re simply a sop to the public. London is terror-stricken as it has not peen for a generation, and demands that omething be done. So suspicious-looking characters, and they can be found by the thousands in the East End, are taken nto custody in a blundering way, held for an hour or two until they can establish an tibi, and then discharged.

With this indefinite and aimless policy on the part of the police, it is hard to tell the part of the police, it is hard to tell whether any real detective work is being done. The detention of Fitzgerald, the hauling up of the poor German who quarrelled with a woman he had met by chance and the late seizure of the mysterious gentleman with the "American hat" are proceedings which have only gone to strengthen the discredit with which the populace regards the police efficiency in this emergency.

The curious disposition to connect the crimes with an American has been carried to an absurd extreme. "An American hat,"

An English friend, who has travelled enough across seas to be-come imbued with a just idea of things, whispers half reluctantly in my ear tat if, instead of giving such a direction to their suspicions, the London detectives would give an American directness and would give an American directness and simplicity to their researches and investiga-tions, they might hope rooner to strike trail which would lead them to the desired trail which would lead them to the desired accomplishment.

"Oh, for a transatlantic Inspector Byrnes!" might well be the cry of the panic-stricken multitude—a multitude forced now, instead of waiting for the solving of the bloody mystery, to wait only in expectation that more blood will be shed.

The fact that the murderer's victims have so far been women of a particular class does not weaken the apprehension, which keeps lone women more or less indoors o' nights, and spoils the flirtations in the fog which have hitherto been a standard amusement with chambermaids out for an airing and guardsmen temporarily off daty.

There is still hope in every face, and at least, the people argue, most of the citizens have already had the fever. There is little material left for it to work upon.

But more than half our people are extles, and they cannot return to Jacksonville with safety until we have had frost. That will not be before the last week of this month, despite the predictions of Wiggus. A half century of experience in this neighborhood is more valuable to a Jacksonville weather prophet than all the things that Wiggins can see through his Canadian telescope.

The Relief Committee received nearly $9,000 in contributions yesterday, and this morning's mail brought nearly $4,000 more.

quarters where the murders have been committed, by day and night. The wanderers, men and women, who have always been about those streets, are there yet, having nowhere else to go. Other people, drawn by curiosity, go to see—what? They see—nothing. But now and again comes a new murder. It happened, perhaps, while the crowd was still gaping about; yet no one saw or knew of it, and the assassin has vanished as completely as one of the grotesque shadow figures made in the fog by the uncertain light from the street lamps. The latest theory, and one having the support of some expert authority, is that the murderer is a monomaniac whose ultra-religious zeal has led him into an assassin's warfare on fallen women. If this be true, the zealot has set himself a big task, but according to present indications he has set an equally big one for the London police. It is as yet an open question whether the one task will be completed any sooner than the other. O'CLOCK

Bank Thief Hardy and Alleged Murderer Kenney at Liberty.

Bold Dash from the Prisoners' Pen at General Sessions.

Thirteen Tried to Climb Out, but Eleven Were Caught.

Hot Chase in City Hall Park by Capt. Myhn and His Policemen.

Thirteen prisoners attempted to escap from the pen in Part III, of the Court of General Sessions at 12.30 to-day. Only two of them succeeded, but they are he ones who will be most missed. One is Henry F. Hardy, the adroit bank burgiar, who only a few days ago, boldly, and in broad daylight, stole a package containing $3,000 in bills from the Fifth Avenue Bank. He was detected and arrested while repeating the crime in a bank on Wall street.

The other is John Kenney, charged wit having killed a man that he was robbing on the night of the 25th of June. These prisoners and eleven others were brought to court for trial this morning. Hardy's case was adjourned for a week, About 12.30 Judge Martine declared a recent of half an hour.

The prisoners were locked up in the pen and a man was put as guard at the door. With the exception of two reporters and Clerk Davenport the room was cleared.

The prisoners' pen has a covering over the top of open wire work.

Taking advantage of their opportunity, the prisoners managed to pry a section of this wire work open. They climbed through the aperture and over the tops of the small pointed iron bars, and then dropped down into the park.

Every one of them would have escaped but for the watchfulness of Frank Prentice, The Wonlo reporter, in the court.

Happening to glance up from a paper he was reading in the reporters' room, he saw the men emerging into freedom. He dashed out into Chambers street and gave the alarm. Policeman Neylan saw one man making off. He chased and managed to capture him. He proved to be William Cunningham, whose trial on a charge of assault comes off this afternoon.

Capt. Myhn and his squad of court officers burst into the pen and prevented any of the other ten from getting out. They were only just in time. Hardy, who is known as a trained athlete, is credited with having put up the job.

It is supposed that he cut off the wire cover-It is supposed that he cut off the wire cover-ing with a pen knife. Park Policeman Maguire saw either Kenny or Hardy running away and gave chase but failed to catch the fellow. and was lost to sight in a moment. Capt. Myhn says he has frequently petitioned for a stronger pen, in a safer part of the court-room, but that his request has always been denied.

Within ten minutes after the men got away the news become bruited about, and a large crowd of people assembled and stared stolidly at the window through which the men had gained their freedom. Peter Mitchell, by proxy had been retained only this morning to defend Hardy, and the case was adjourned a week until Lawyer Mitchell, who is expected dally, gets back from Europe.

House & Friend, lawyers, were counsel for Kenney.
